The Indianapolis team found the defeating of the Elwood Grays an easy proposition last night and Roberts's men were forced to accept the short end of an 8-to-2 score. The Elwood band was badly crippled and the local players will have to play faster polo than they played last night to defeat last year's champions when the latter appear on the floor with their regular

Twelve hundred of the faithful braved the storm last night and were on hand to root for their favorites. The fates seemed against the local management in more ways than one last night. The lights went out furing the game and the auditorium was in total darkness for about fifteen minutes. During this time the bleacherites amused themselves by lighting matches, which flickered like fireflies. The players who were already on the floor practicing stopped just wher they happened to be when the lights went out. To make matters worse, Referee Moran failed to arrive in time for the first period, and, after delaying the game for about fifteen minutes waiting for Moran, "Jap" Clemens, a local polo player, acted as referee. He called fouls on O'Malley and Way in the first period.

"Knobby" Knowlton is a huge joke as a polo player. He might win fame in a contest where no physical exertion was required, but he is about fifteen minutes too low for a polo player. The Indianapolis team almost completely changed its line-up in the latter part of the third period. Way retired from the contest and Coggshall went to half. Pierce took Cogshall's place at center and Kerrigan took the place of the second rush. The little utility man scored one goal for Way's men and was instrumental in a number of cases in breaking up the Elwood offense.

Otis Spencer started the goal getting in the first period, scoring a marker in 2:23 on a short drive from the front of the cage. Pierce landed one behind White in 6:03 on a pass from Coggshall, and followed this with another in 4:52 on a short drive while White was away from his cage. This was the final tally in the opening period. Mc-Gilvray surprised "Peggy" White by winning the first rush in the second period and registering a tally in thirty seconds. He passed the ball to Pierce, who was followng him, and in the second rush returned i to McGilvray, who caught it in the air and scored. Spencer then put the champions in the lead in 5:27 on a short angle drive.

The next two goals were for Indianapolis and were caged by Pierce. The first was caged in 1:32 on a scoop and the second on a drive from center in 7:27. The latter was the last marker in the second period. Mc-Gilvray, Captain Way and Kerrigan each took a turn at registering goals in the final period. McGilvray tabbed the first in 2:20 on a pass from Pierce. Captain Way was in evidence for the next tally, which he scooped past White in 6:40 during the scrimmage in front of the Elwood cage. Kerrigan scored the final goal in 3:25 on a neat scoop. Line-up and summary:

so by the fact that of the seven riders who took the pace to sprint the last mile four fell, crashing in a heap, just as half the final journey had been completed.

At the bank on the Fourth-avenue and Twenty-sixth-street end. Breton was riding on the outside. His front tire came off and he practically swept all those near him down on the incline to the flat below. His wheel was smashed and he and the others were cut, bruised and scratched. In the bunch that went down were Breton, Fisher, Newkirk, Floyd Krebs and John Bedell. Both Bedell and Breton were knocked unconscious. The others were half-dazed, with the exception of Floyd

It had been decided by the management before the final sprint that falls should not count in favor of the rider, but that those who escaped in falls should ride on. This left Walthour and Leander in the final sprint. Walthour and Leander were about together at the end of the ninth lap, with Walthour half a wheel ahead. Walthour let Leander keep at the end of his wheel till the Twenty-sixth-street side of the Garden, on the last lap, was reached. Then WON STRAIGHT SETS he made a spurt and shot away, winning by at least fifty yards.

While the final sprint was going on Floyd Krebs had picked up, and he rode around after Leander and Walthour, laps behind, but a good third. Fisher also managed to get up and rode slowly around, getting fourth money. Newkirk won by a sprint on the last lap and got fifth place. This left the order of the race as follows: Walthour and Monroe, Leander and Butler, Krebs and Peterson, Bowler and Fisher, Newkirk and Jacobson, Contenet and Breton, J. and M. DROP FOUR COLLEGES FROM ASSOCIATION

C. L. Peck, an Indianapolis Student at Purdue, Elected President.

Representatives of the Indiana Intercollegiate Athletic Association in session at the Denison Hotel yesterday afternoon decided that the next intercollegiate track meet shall be at Notre Dame the last Saturday in May, dropped four colleges from the association, elected officers and made some minor changes in the constitution.

The unexpected feature of the meeting was the expelling of four colleges-the University of Indianapolis, Franklin, Hanover and Earlham-from the association. The action was taken by the two-thirds vote required by the constitution, and the reasons given were that the schools in question have taken little interest in the association and have not paid their dues. None of the in-IN BIG BICYCLE RACE stitutions in question was represented at the meeting. The officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows:

"We expect at least 500 visiting shooters to participate in the Grand American Handicap in Indianapolis," said W. T. Nash, president of the Indianapolis Gun Club, last are here. Manufacturers of guns, ammuni tion, etc., will be here with their exhibits, and they will be given space on the club

"The club will double its trap capacity by adding three sets of traps, which will make it possible to throw 50,000 targets a day. The Interstate Association has discarded live bird events, and all tournaments are now at targets. The handicap events are open to all shooters, both amateur and professional. "The tournament will last for a week, and the most important events will be the Preliminary Handicap, Grand American Handicap and the Consolation Handicap, each at 100 targets. We understand the association contemplates holding the tournament next June, and if the date is set in that month we will transfer the state tournament to April or May. President Bennett and Secretary Shaner, of the Interstate Association, will come to Indianapolis within a few days.'

COUNTER GOLF GAME

Ping Pong in Parlors.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.-The newest game for indoor amusement in London is "counter golf," which has the advantage BohnstadtCenter..... over other kinds of golf in that it is played on a parlor table. It is one of the most exciting parlor games yet invented and promises to gain as wide popularity as did a craze, particularly among members of the theatrical profession. This latter fact is easily accounted forthe game is the invention of that inimitable little comedian, who is the life and soul of Gaiety comedies, Teddy Payne. The links, which is a board covered with green baize, constitutes a six-holed course over a series of bunkers, composed rocks, a ridge, a fence, a wall and a water jump, the holes set between these obstacles

In playing the game an ivory disk or counter takes the place of the ball and it is impelled forward by a small ivory nicker that plays the part of the golf club Pressure of the nicker on the edge of the counter forces it to jump forward, though not always in the manner expected or the direction required. Play is commenced at the home green and continued around the course, every hole being made after each bunker has been cleared between two flags set upon it The game is to cover the course in the least number of strokes, making, of course, every hole. A stroke is counted each time the counter is touched, and, while it is impossible to cover the course in six strokes, the probability is that, simple as the play appears, sixty strokes will be nearer the mark, for the counter has an aggravating way of flying off at unexpected angles. dropping too short when the pressure is too light, flying too far when it is too hard, and lodging even on the bunkers. The game is finished when those taking part in it have, playing alternately, covered the course thrice, and won by the player so doing. By the players taking alternate turns interest in the game is thoroughly maintained, and rises to fever heat in the last round, when every one is trying his or her best to win the pool, which, naturally, has more attraction when composed of half-crowns than when made up only of nuts. It is just the game to make a party merry on a wet evening, the more so because there are no intricate rules to be learned, and because every one can par-

FAST GAMES OPEN THE BASKETBALL SEASON

M. T. H. S. Defeats Butler, and Shortridge the Victim of

Y. M. C. A. LATTER A CLOSE CONTEST

Three Minutes Overtime for Y. M. C. A. to Make a Point.

Seldom has Indianapolis witnessed such exciting and nerve-racking basketball so early in the season as the two games that marked the opening of the Indianapolis Basketball League last night in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. For two hours the gymnasium rang with the shouts of the different crowds of rooters as the teams see-sawed ahead. Butler was pitted against the Manual Training High School, and, though the boys from Irvington fought fiercely, they were one point in arrears when time was called, the final score being 23 to 22 in favor of Manual Training High School. The team from the Shortridge High School sprang a surprise when they played the Y. M. C. A. five about even, and lost only after the score was stied just before the whistle blew, and it was necessary to play three minutes extra to decide the final score, which was: Y. M. C. A., 22; Short-

Despite the stormy weather last night a good crowd saw the opening games of the league, and there was no lack of enthusiasm. While neither game was replete with spectacular playing or pretty team work, those who ventured out were well repaid, for the contests were interesting from the beginning to the end. Both games ended so closely that almost every one was on his feet and shouting wildly. In the last few minutes of play the Butler five took a spurt and ran the M. T. H. S. team hard, almost tying the score. When the whistle blew at the end of the last half of the other game both teams had 20 points to their credit. Umpire Haynes tossed the ball up for the teams to play on until one scored. The play was fast, rough and vicious, but after three minutes of battle Hester secured the ball in a clear field and tossed it neatly into the basket. An outburst of pent-up enthusiasm indicated the tension of excitement of the spectators.

From a review of the team work of the different teams last night, it is apparent that the league games will all be close this season, as the teams are playing about even. The Y. M. C. A. did not show up to its usual form last night, and, despite the fact that they won after giving Shortridge ten points' lead, there were times when the high school boys outplayed them at team work. Butler and M. T. H. S. played about the same game, both fumbling often and weak in getting their team The first game was that between But-ler and M. T. H. S. The latter started the scoring soon after the whistle blew by Bohnstadt throwing a goal from foul and following it up a minute later by one from more to M. T. H. S.'s score by placing a hard one from the side of the field. At this point Butler started some fast team work and threw three goals straight run-ning. Fouls were called on both teams repeatedly for rough playing, but in the throwing from fouls Kingsbury bested Bohnstadt and rarely missed a chance. At the end of the first half the score stood 15 to 12 in favor of the high school five. In the second half Butler put up a better game and outplayed their opponents, crawling steadily up on the score. Murray fouled soon after the half began and Bohnstadt found the basket for another point. He followed it up with a hard throw from the wall immediately under the basket. On Brown's foul M. T. H. S. added another point to their score, and Cook made it 21 by a goal from field. In the meantime Kingsbury had accepted three free chances at the basket and Murray placed a hard one from the side of the field. He was fouled in making the throw and was given one point in addition. Kingsbury made the score 19 on a chance from a foul. Spohr made the last score for Training School, finding the basket on a beautiful throw from the center of the field. Kingsbury made the final score for Butler 21 on two chances from fouls made by Bohnstadt. For Training School Spohr and Bohnstadt played the star games, while for Butler Murray, Brown and Mauzy put up good games. Both teams showed lack of familiarity with the ball, fumbling it repeatedly. The game between the Y. M. C. A. and the Shortridge High School was a rough and-tumble battle in which the former had a little the better of it. Shortridge was given a lead of ten points and continued to keep it until the last few minutes of play, when Hester and Huggins found the basket for a series of goals. Fouls were called on both teams repeatedly, and in the tossing for goals High School took a slight advantage. The Y. M. C. A. team showed lack of practice and at no stage of the game did they get their team to work together as the same five have done in forear-olds and up, one Becoming Almost as Popular as best work for them, while Spohr and Short deserve credit for their work. The teams
